Franco's condition worsens

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco's condition "increased in gravity" today with new internal bleeding, more heart failure and further lung congestion. A morning medical bulletin said the 82-year-old Franco, fighting for his life on the 26th day of a series of illnesses, had spent a "troubled, uncomfortable" night.

Ban protested

MOSCOW (UPI) — Dissident Soviet physicist Andrei Sakharov is protesting an official refusal to allow him to receive the Nobel Peace Prize in Oslo, Dec. 10. Sakharov, who helped the Soviets develop the hydrogen bomb, said he was denied an exit visa on grounds he possesses state secrets. He has not worked in the nuclear program in seven years.

Angola Marxists control capital

LUANDA, Angola (UPI) — The two-day-old Marxist government in Luanda fought off an attack on the capital today by opposition forces, but rival troops attacking from the north and south threatened to choke off the city. Military sources in Luanda said troops of the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola beat back a mortar-supported assault across the Bongo River on Quilangondo, 12 miles north of the capital.

French set Pacific nuclear test

PARIS (UPI) — France shortly will explode an underground nuclear device on Fangataufa atoll, 720 miles southeast of Tahiti in the Pacific, according to reports circulating today in Tahiti. French officials were not available for comment. In the past they have refused all comment until after the test has been completed.

Ford's China trip plans settled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and China have settled their differences over President Ford going to Peking and agreed the journey will take place at the end of the month. White House officials said today. The countries have agreed to jointly announce the visit and dates. The White House officials said the announcement will come shortly.

Publication set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said his committee will publish a report on CIA assassination plots this month despite President Ford's pleas to keep details secret. The report will cover reported abortive CIA plans to murder foreign leaders including the late Salvador Allende in Chile and Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Mercury hits zero at Fairfield

FAIRFIELD — The National Weather Service reported a low of zero in Fairfield Tuesday night. This is the first zero temperature reported for the Magic Valley area this fall.

Senate panel rejects nominee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Banking Committee today rejected the nomination of Ben Blackburn, who had been criticized for his "insensitivity" to minority groups, as chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. The former, four-term congressman from Georgia was criticized for his voting record on civil rights legislation while in the House and for his attitude toward minorities and poor people. The vote against Blackburn was 85-5. Two Republicans joined six Democrats in voting out to report the nomination to the Senate for consideration.

Storm halts search for ship crew

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (UPI) — A winter snowstorm and winds up to 50 miles per hour all but scuttled the fate of 29 crewmen aboard the Edmund Fitzgerald which sank in a wind storm on Lake Superior, Coast Guard officials said today. The storm prevented helicopters and small boats from participating in the search for possible survivors.

Portugal Reds lead protest march

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Thousands of striking Communist-led construction workers marched through the capital today to press demands for better pay, forcing the Labor Ministry to shut down to avoid a confrontation.

Balanced reaction for US

© Washington Star
PITTSBURGH — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today condemned the United Nations vote equating Zionism with racism — but said the United States must keep its reaction "in some balance."

At a news conference here, Kissinger said so many countries voted against the U.S. position in opposition to the resolution that any move towards sanctions against these countries as a group would be a major decision. He said that while there are inherent consequences in the action, the United States would consider the votes on an individual basis before deciding what actions to take.

His words suggested that the United States will confine itself to rhetoric rather than take reprisals such as reduced U.S. funding for the United Nations or sanctions against the countries that voted for the resolution.

But Kissinger said there is no doubt that the vote added to world tensions. "It was highly irresponsible and extremely unhelpful," he said.

The secretary of state noted that when the United Nations was founded it was regarded as the "best hope" of humanity. "That was exaggerated," he said. "But we must not now swing to the other extreme. The UN with all its failings has advantages for the U.S. and the American reaction must be kept in some balance."

"This administration feels that the UN vote was a moral condemnation of the state of Israel, not an abstract vote on Zionism. But it smacked of some practices that it would be better for mankind to forget," Kissinger said. Nevertheless, Kissinger cautioned that if the United Nations continues such actions it is bound to have serious consequences for the world organization as a viable body.

Mr. T-N Some people will probably refuse to link cattle mutilation to anything but UFO's and the Devil.

Rumsfeld hits shake-up ties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Donald H. Rumsfeld told Congress today he had nothing to do with the decision to fire James R. Schlesinger as secretary of defense and said he plans to follow policies similar to Schlesinger's if confirmed to the post.

"I know Jim Schlesinger," Rumsfeld, formerly White House chief of staff, told the Senate Armed Services Committee considering his nomination as defense secretary. "I admired him. And I had nothing to do with his dismissal." Rumsfeld said he took himself out of the discussion when the Cabinet-level shake-up first came up a week before it was announced. When President Ford asked his opinion, he said, "I gave him views different than those which eventually prevailed."

In response to a question, Rumsfeld asserted, "I know of no major policy differences" between himself and Schlesinger.

TWIN FALLS — Albertson's has unveiled a preliminary site plan for its new grocery store on the Blue Lakes Boulevard — Addison Avenue corner.

The plan envisions a main store at the northeast corner of the property, with a small bank office at the southwest edge and a line of shops at the northwest. Albertson's proposal also includes provisions for seven exits and for entryways. One would be on Blue Lakes Boulevard North, three on Addison Avenue, two on Elm Street and one on Ash Street, according to the plan.

Jean Miller, Twin Falls City Manager, said city officials will meet with Idaho Highway somebody can vote for and not against," he said. "Let's win the presidency in 1976 by offering the people's choice as the nominee of the Democratic party."

Wallace, who said his slogan would be "Trust in the People," said he would run in "the great majority" of the primaries.

The Alabama governor has been paralyzed from the waist down and confined to a wheel chair since he was shot and almost killed by an assassin in 1972. He is the 10th Democrat to seek the party's nomination.

In the past, the national Democratic Party has allowed itself to be taken over by the exotic left, which consists of those who made the noise but did not have the votes," he said, adding that the "average citizen is fed up and has been voting against the far left positions of the national party nominees and platforms. He said he was "the leading candidate for this nomination," a position only partly supported by the polls. The most recent Gallup Poll said he led all announced Democratic candidates, but trailed two other Democrats — Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Boy freed from pipe

SIX-YEAR-OLD Elias Nadjem encountered adventure while playing Tuesday in Baltimore. Md. He fell into an uncovered drainage pipe. Workers removed a section of the pipe, then coaxed the boy with oil and pulled him out. Elias was treated for cuts and bruises at a hospital, then released. (UPI)

Job load may cost Minico prosecutor

BY SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News Writer

RUPERT — Minidoka County deputy Pros. Atty. Robert Nielsen has offered to resign to clear the way for hiring a deputy prosecutor who can handle the heavy criminal case load and the civil duties of the office.

Nielsen was Minidoka prosecuting attorney until he stepped down at the end of last year. His deputy, H. Bill Manning, succeeded him at the head position after a heated debate over how much work the prosecutor can do. Manning now has indicated he will leave his job at the end of the year unless he gets help with criminal case load. The move came following a plea Monday by Manning for a deputy application that could partially fund his salary to help with the criminal cases. As deputy, Nielsen has acted only on civil work, including appeals to the various county commissions.

Commissioners showed early reluctance to apply for the job, which calls for the county to pay $3,000 the first year, $5,000 the second year and $9,000 the third year. The remainder of the $12,000 salary would be funded by the Law Enforcement Training Commission. If the grant were approved, Nielsen would discuss the matter with the county commissioners to determine whether a second man was necessary for the criminal work.

Nielsen said Tuesday night that Manning felt a difficult deputy without his own legal work would be able to help on the criminal work and still handle the civil end of the office.

"I've enjoyed representing the commissions," Nielsen said, "but Bill says he can't handle all the criminal work. I don't see how the county can justify two deputies."

The grant application has to be filed today, putting a rush on the commission, which met both Monday and Tuesday.

In making his appeal Monday, Manning told commissioners that the number of serious crimes increased 61 per cent for the first nine months this year over the same period a year ago.

He said the probation and parole office caseload has doubled for the Mini-Cassia area. Both counties are handled by one office.

Manning admitted it was an awkward situation. He and Nielsen had been telling the commissioners the prosecutor's position should be a fulltime job, the commission raised the salary to $20,000 on Jan. 1.

The prosecutor said that is one of the highest prosecutor salaries in the state, but added that Minidoka ranked 13th out of 44 counties by the 1970 census.

Nielsen said he was sure all the larger commissions had an assistant on criminal cases. He said a criminal deputy has not existed since Jan. 1.

He added that he would like to have time to hold classes to educate police in such legal ramifications as search and seizure and other aspects of the law. He said he has not had enough time for the criminal cases. He alone has six extra.

He said the position was a good fulltime job at the beginning of the year, but the growing caseload was too much. He cited three homicides still pending — the McCall shooting, the Benavides stabbing and the Ruffner chain strangulation.

Probers find little new

By DAVE HORSMAN

BOISE — Special investigators assigned to crack the cattle mutilation mystery in Idaho apparently have come up empty-handed.

An attorney general's report on cattle mutilations in Idaho, due for release next week, contains no "homemade" of new information, according to chief investigator Dave Rowe.

Rowe, who would not discuss specifics of the report, said the mutilations "don't appear to be" the work of an organized group, or satanic cult. He said over 100 cattle deaths were investigated during the attorney general's probe.

Of that number, only 10 or 20 were possible mutilations, with "something there besides just a dead cow — something to arouse somebody's concern."

"They had some parts removed. They were more than just a dead animal lying there," Rowe said.

Asked if the results of the probe warrant any action at the state level, Rowe said, "Not particularly."

The report should be "somewhat helpful" to local officials in investigating cattle deaths, he said. "They might follow suggested procedures," in the report, he added.

The attorney general's probe was started a month ago and three agents have been checking reported mutilations in all parts of the state, relying primarily on local records and news reports, Rowe said.

A rash of reported cattle mutilations across Idaho between June and early October prompted the investigation.

Minnesota, Texas and Colorado also initiated state investigations of cattle mutilations. These reports also failed to turn up any conclusive evidence about who was responsible for the bizarre removal of sexual organs and ears from dead cattle.

Albertson's unveils North Five Points site plan

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Albertson's has unveiled a preliminary site plan for its new grocery store on the Blue Lakes Boulevard — Addison Avenue corner.

The plan envisions a main store at the northeast corner of the property, with a small bank office at the southwest edge and a line of shops at the northwest. Albertson's proposal also includes provisions for seven exits and for entryways. One would be on Blue Lakes Boulevard North, three on Addison Avenue, two on Elm Street and one on Ash Street, according to the plan.

Jean Miller, Twin Falls City Manager, said city officials will meet with Idaho Highway

Department engineers next week "to determine whether these people have made a plan that is workable or not."

Miller said he had not had time to study the plan and could not make a judgement on its workability.

Howard Johnson, chief of the division office for the highway department, said the department doesn't have the authority absolutely to prohibit construction of exits and entries, but added they could "strongly recommend" where and where not to place the driveways.

The department is "very interested in what effect this is going to have on the traffic movements," Johnson said.

"We try to work with them (Albertson's) as much as we can to get their entrances and exits located so as to create the least traffic congestion," he added.

"Albertson's is not interested in creating a problem, I'm sure," Johnson said. "Our experience with them is they've been very cooperative."

Thomas T. Naylor, Albertson's real estate manager for the Intermountain region, emphasized that the site plan is preliminary and could be changed after review by highway "experts" and city officials.

But the firm is apparently concerned that all four streets provide access to the shopping center. "There's no way we're not going to have driveways on all of them (the streets)," Naylor said.

The preliminary plan calls for the major building to be 30,000 square feet. The small bank building would be 3,000 square feet and the stock of shops would encompass 12,000 square feet.

The plan also apparently takes into consideration the highway department's proposals for improvement of Blue Lakes Boulevard and Addison Avenue East, including the construction of raised median strips on both roads.

The median strips would appear to limit left hand turns to only one Addison Avenue exit, and the Elm and Ash Street driveways, and prevent left hand turns from the other two driveways. The plan also shows the purchase of the property, formerly the site of Washington school, during a public auction in late September for $332,500.

Tale of UFO, disappearance slated soon

HOLBROOK, Ariz. (UPI) — A man who disappeared as he investigated flying objects may soon tell his story.

Travis Walton, 22, a woodcutter from Snowflake, was reported safe Tuesday after his brother, Duane Walton, Phoenix, and his brother-in-law, Grant Neff, Taylor, found him in a telephone booth at Heber in northern Arizona. Travis was located after telephoning Grant Neff, Neff and Duane Walton, who was staying with relatives in Snowflake, went to Heber and found Travis on the floor of the phone booth, reportedly suffering pain in his head and chest.

Duane told Navajo County Sheriff Marlin Gillespie that he would take Travis to a hospital in Tucson, but later Gillespie was notified that he could meet with Travis if he would drive to Phoenix.

Duane also said that Travis would describe his experience to the news media Thursday or Friday.

Sheriff's deputies said they were told that Travis claimed he was in two spaceships after he disappeared last Wednesday.

Six men who were with Travis when he disappeared said he was hit by a bluish light as he investigated an aircraft that hovered several feet above the ground near Heber. The men later were given polygraph tests and results released by the sheriff's office showed five of them were telling the truth. Results from the test given the sixth man were inconclusive.

Duane said Travis thought he had been gone only about two hours instead of five days and that he was "disgusted" because the occupants of the UFOs would not talk to him.

"They would just smile at him and lead him by the arm," Duane said.

Duane said Travis would be willing to submit to a lie detector test himself after resting a couple of days.

Blacklist planned

By United Press International

The Arab League's Israel-Boycott Office announced today it will blacklist foreign vessels that pass through Suez Canal with goods for Israel.

"This means that these vessels will not be allowed to anchor in any Arab port and will not be serviced," Boycott Commissioner-General Mohammed Ahmed Mahjoub said in Damascus.

While Egypt has agreed to allow 8,000 tons of Israeli-bound goods to go through the canal, it will place the vessels on a blacklist if they make the voyage. Mahjoub said at a news conference.

He said the Greek freighter Olympos, which was the first Israeli-bound vessel to transit the canal under the recent Israeli-Egyptian interim peace agreement, was also the first ship on the Egyptian blacklist.

"The regional boycott office in Egypt has requested that this vessel should be blacklisted, and the boycott headquarters has asked all regional offices to place it on blacklist," Mahjoub said.

The Olympos was the first Israeli-bound vessel allowed through the canal in 16 years, and a few other vessels have followed its lead since.

Guardian

pays visit

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. June Birch, grand guardian of the Grand Bethel of Job's Daughters of Idaho, paid her official visit to Bethel No. 19 during a meeting Monday.

Mrs. Birch was presented a corsage and gifts from the Bethel and a cash donation for the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospitals.

Jill Klingler, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Smith; Wendy Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Garrison; and William, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Williamson, were initiated into the Bethel.

Ardith Crumbliss, librarian, read an original tribute to Mrs. Birch, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ford, guardian and associate guardian, presented the new members with ritual books.

Mrs. Birch presented all members a copy of "Dynamic Freedoms."

Members, their families and guests attended a dinner before the meeting and a reception followed the meeting. A school of instruction was conducted in the afternoon.

The next meeting will be Nov. 24 when officers will be elected.

Freedoms

'in peril'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Freedoms inherent in the constitutional guarantee of the "pursuit of happiness" are in peril, former Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. warned Tuesday.

"The freedoms which enable the people of our land to pursue happiness are of crucial importance... and are in peril at the hands of men of good intentions and much zeal," the former Democratic senator told a convocation marking the first 50 years of the Menninger Foundation, a psychiatric complex in Topeka, Kan.

Edgar W. Carpenter

TWIN FALLS — Edgar William Carpenter, 63, Twin Falls, died at his home early Tuesday after a long illness.

Born May 6, 1912, at Sabatka, Kan., Mr. Carpenter worked for the Union Pacific Railroad for 37 years in Idaho, Oregon and Wyoming. He was married to Mary Irene Riley at Paris, Idaho, on Oct. 24, 1941.

Survivors are his wife; three children, Wilma Howard, Twin Falls; Mary Jane Whitesell, Richfield, and Edgar R. Carpenter, Beaverton, Ore.; a brother, Carl Carpenter, Pocatello, and three sisters, Mary Humecker, Pawnee City, Neb.; Effie Moody, Holton, Kan. and Orma Williams, Garnett, Kan. There are nine grandchildren.

One sister preceded Mr. Carpenter in death. Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. Thursday at White Mortuary Chapel by Rev. Kenneth Rhoades. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Friends may call at the mortuary until time of services. The family suggests memorials to the Cancer Fund.

Assumptions about crime

Wall Street Journal

In recent weeks, presidential candidate Mo Udall and consumerist Ralph Nader have been saying that there is a big problem in the country with white collar crime — "entirely new, antithetical to the old."

Americans are said to be too preoccupied with the cops and robbers variety of crime and not enough concerned about the shenanigans at Amalgamated Gum-drop.

In part, this claim is another variation of the currently popular sport of corporation-baiting. In part, it reflects the number of new laws, inspired partly by folks like Mr. Nader and Mr. Udall, that businessmen can potentially run afoul of. And in part, although this is a more debatable proposition, it may reflect a general breakdown of social and ethical standards.

But whatever the state of white collar crime, or the petty thievery of blue collar workers, or the can artistry of the sports shirt crowd, the public preoccupation with violent crime is not misdirected.

Any society concerned about self-preservation must necessarily pay greater attention to crimes of violence than to nonviolent crime.

This is not because one is "bad" and the other "good," but because while one basks victims out of money, the other deprives them of their freedom to walk the streets except at great personal risk.

As Harvard political scientist James Q. Wilson has noted, predatory street crime is a far more serious matter than consumer fraud because it "makes difficult or impossible the maintenance of meaningful human communities."

One of the most vexing things about street crime is that it defies so many of the comfortable assumptions with which we have surrounded it.

We say that poverty is the major cause, yet most poor people are not criminals and theft and related crimes have increased in the U.S. and elsewhere as prosperity has increased. We have been told that violent crime is mostly a shortcoming of capitalist societies, yet it cuts across political and economic systems.

A recent AP dispatch from Lisbon shows that the socialist trend in Portugal since the fall of the Caxiano regime in April 1974 has certainly not lowered Portugal's crime rate. Instead, the rate of theft and violence is up as much as 100 per cent.

One of the few things we know with certainty is that money alone is not the answer to controlling crime. The Hoover Institution's Roger Freeman points out in "The Growth of American Government" that the ratio of policemen to population doubled in the U.S. between 1952-72.

Yet crime tripled during that same period. In 1967, federal, state and local governments spent some $4.5 billion to combat crime; as The Washington Post noted, "several serious-minded groups looked at the rate of crime and the amount of money being spent and concluded that the amount should be doubled."

Now we spend about $15 billion a year and the crime rate continues to soar. Washington, D.C. itself is overrun with local and federal police, yet its crime rate is hardly comforting.

It is, of course, easier to debunk conventional theories about crime than to come up with convincing explanations.

Crime is undeniably related to the overall workings of the criminal justice system, which is burdened with overcrowded courts, overworked prosecutors and undermanned legal staffs.

But it is also undeniable that crime is closely related to punishment, or to lack of punishment. Professor Wilson and others have noted that the severity of punishment is less important than the certainty that convicted criminals will be punished at all. And there simply is no such certainty, at least not in the crime-ridden big cities.

It's important to probe the root causes of crime, to find out how much, if any, is caused by the breakdown of traditional forms of social leadership and behavioral control. It is worth exploring what part, if any, class attitudes play in predisposing people to crimes of violence. All this is important because we still have a good deal to learn about a subject that confronts us daily.

Meanwhile, though, it isn't very helpful to suggest that white collar crime is a more serious threat to the social order than predatory street crime, which inspires fear right across the board.

JAMES RESTON

Runners and non-runners offer a bleak list

© N.Y. Times Service

DALLAS — The more you look at the men who are now running for president, the more you have to wonder about the men who are not running.

"It is a long and even formidable list: Senators Hubert Humphrey and Fritz Mondale of Minnesota; Senators Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Ed Muskie of Maine, and Mac Mathias of Maryland; Governors Brown of California and Askew of Florida; former governors Connally of Texas and Reagan of California; and finally, among others, Elliot Richardson of Massachusetts, the greatest cabinet-maker since Chippendale.

These men are at least as impressive as the declined candidates which is a modest praise, but still you have to think that there must be something wrong if the list of non-candidates is better than the list of candidates, and the people do nothing about it.

By the logic of life, the young men and women in their 40's or even in their 30's should now be coming to the forefront of the presidential race. The majority of our people are now under 40, and the central questions of the last years of the 1970's are wholly new and are not likely to be resolved by the Hooverish conservatism or New Dealish innovation of the past.

But by the accidents of life, the natural American preference for picking leaders when they're coming instead of when they're going somehow seems to have got lost. After Eisenhower, the Democrats gambled on young Jack Kennedy, almost against their will, but when he was murdered, they went back to Johnson, and both parties have been struck with old geezers in their sixties ever since.

It can scarcely be argued that these senior citizens have such a brilliant record from the past, or such clear visions and answers for the future that they deserve another chance.

Humphrey clearly fought his way to the leadership of his party, and at least, he has the good judgment not to fight for the nomination, which he knows should go to younger men. Ford is the last of the Nixon accidents in one of the most forgettable eras in American history.

Both parties have to share the blame for these dreary years. Though the percentage of the defense budget went as high as 9 per cent of the GNP in recent years, we stumbled into an unnecessary Vietnam war and lost it. Though social welfare spending went for $24 billion in 1950 to $245 billion in 1974, the welfare level is still a national disgrace.

I sounds more democratic, and in many ways it probably is. But, for example the British, who know something about democracy, see no conflict between democracy and party responsibility for picking the best man they have, running or not. They leave the final choice to the people, but not the preliminary decision about which candidates are to be considered.

In the last few days, meeting with editors in Aspicus, bankers in Columbus, Ohio, and voters here and elsewhere in between, it is hard to avoid the undercurrent conclusion that the American people are both dissatisfied with the candidates they think they're going to get next year, and still feel helpless to do anything about it.

So the prospect is for an exhausting primary season leading in the end to a race between two leaders of the last generation.

Unless, of course, the people begin to organize now, state by state, for a protest vote on behalf of younger men.

This can be done only by a write-in campaign of massive proportions in all the primary states. No such demonstration of public protest has ever been launched nation-wide before, but maybe the time has come for the people to start demonstrating for the men of the future.

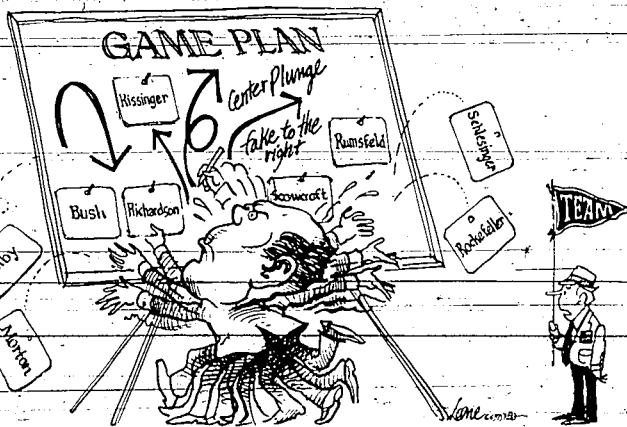

Though we are beginning to come out of the worst economic slump since the '30's, October unemployment was up over 200,000 to over 8 million or 8.6 per cent of the work force — the highest rise since the May 1973 high of 9.2 per cent.

In the light of all this, it scarcely seems reasonable for the parties to offer to the nation these men from another time, and while it is true that we now have no Jeffersons, Jacksons, or Monroes, or Lincolns, on the scene, the present list of candidates is not that bad, and is probably as good or even better than the Wilkies, Deweys, Trumans, Goldwaters, Niksons, and McGovern were when they were nominated.

The outlook for picking the right man out of the runners and non-runners, however is fairly bleak when you look at the 30-odd primary elections some of them will go through and some of them won't. It is almost enough to make you consider the heretical idea that with all these state presidential primary elections that maybe democracy has lost something.

Or even to whisper a good word for that most criticized and condemned institution of American politics, the "smoky room."

The action that the people in primary elections are better qualified to pick a national leader from the runners than are the party leaders, who know both the runners and the non-runners, is a distinctly novel idea.

Additional questions await Schlesinger reply

Count me in, please, among the bereaved by the loss of James Schlesinger.

Along with just about everyone else, I deem Henry Kissinger the most persuasive advocate in the republic, and inasmuch as his policies as distinguished from his motivations — are in my judgment wrongheaded, I sometimes wish he were less lucid, less eloquent, though one takes pride in the sonority of his prose and the craftsmanship of his arguments.

Schlesinger, incredibly, is in the same league. All the more painful fact should be dropped from the cabinet — for the sole purpose, we are to take President Ford at his word, of creating a team with which Ford feels comfortable. There are those of us who would prefer that Ford endure a little discomfort, rather than that he should strive so successfully to cause the Soviet Union to be comfortable. The elimination of Schlesinger will in all likelihood create a new Soviet holiday.

It happens that a fortnight ago I met the secretary of defense and asked him a few questions the answers to which are especially pertinent under the circumstances.

Q. Are you affected by the crystallizing ethic of the Sixties, namely that the secretary of defense, like the secretary of state, is morally bound by the foreign policy (the administrator)?

Or is it your idea of a civil servant that one doesn't permit oneself to ask that question about a policy dictated from above?

Schlesinger, Certainly not the latter, I think that you have two questions there. The first was: Could a public official carry out a policy that happened, for a variety of historical reasons, to have earned the disapprobation of the intellectual community? The answer to that is certainly, it's one responsibility. If the policy is in the national interest and it is right to carry it out. On the other hand, if one has moral misgivings of one's own of a serious nature, one has the obligation to withdraw.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

The next question asked whether there is an ethical distinction between the responsibilities of the civil servant and the policy-maker — between the executor and the secretary of defense.

Schlesinger, The policy maker, if he disagrees with policy in a serious way, should depart.

Q. Is the secretary of defense ex officio a policy maker?

Schlesinger, That's correct. If the forces under his command and under his scrutiny are being used in a way which he regards as inappropriate and he has no sympathy with the policy, he should turn the office over to somebody who does have sympathy with the policy, because he would be ineffective in carrying it out.

Scripture behind reasoning

Editor, Times-News:

I feel it is very appropriate at this time to refer to a letter by Mr. Wayne Hoag concerning his opposition to the stand taken by MAIM Mothers about America's involvement in the Middle East.

I too am a Christian by birth and race and am against involvement of America in the Middle East war. I base my reasoning upon scripture, new and old.

America is the land of the re-gathering of the nations of Israel. When God sent a message to King David by Nathan the prophet, He commanded him to tell King David that He, God, would appoint a new place for his people, Israel, from whence they would move no more. (II Sam 7:10)

King David was standing in Jerusalem, by his pillar, by his coronation stone, at that very time. Eventually the twelve tribes of Israel, the twelve tribes of Israel, migrated through the Caucasus Mountains and spread out over Europe. The twelve tribes came first and the two tribes came later.

Eventually portions of them migrated to America. The New Land.

Identity is very important for an understanding of this situation. Isaiah, Ch. 18, describes America so very well — a land of the outstretched wings of the eagle, measured by sections, outspread and polished, and divided by rivers. What better description could there be found for our United States of America?

The eagle is our national bird. Its emblems are found on many legal papers, documents and our money.

Israel, also, was to be a land of "unwalled" villages. (Ex. 28) which description must certainly not fit Israel.

He must, also, remember that "Modern Israel" is the "daughter of Jerusalem," and not the Mother. "Old Jerusalem."

Perhaps this too is reason, in part, for the stand taken by MAIM Mothers.

Discriminating against kids?

Editor, Times-News:

We read frequently about discrimination suits for one reason or another — race, sex, age, etc., and sit back and make silent judgment of those involved. Tak-tak.

What about class discrimination? What is it? Court decisions repeatedly remind us that children have rights too. How can our mobile home parks legally bar children? Do children have the right to live in a mobile home park? Evidently not around Twin Falls. Is this or is this not class discrimination because of age? We exclude blacks, Chinese or other minority groups. So how can we discriminate against kids?

I don't pretend to know the real reason for this practice at mobile home parks, but I wonder, in all seriousness if it could have anything to do with federal money available for retirement centers for the elderly. It would be interesting to know how many mobile home park owners have applied for or intend to apply for federal funds for expansion or development or both.

If this is the reason, it may be a good idea to remind the owners of these parks that the bulk of our taxes are paid by these families who are undesirable because they choose to raise a family.

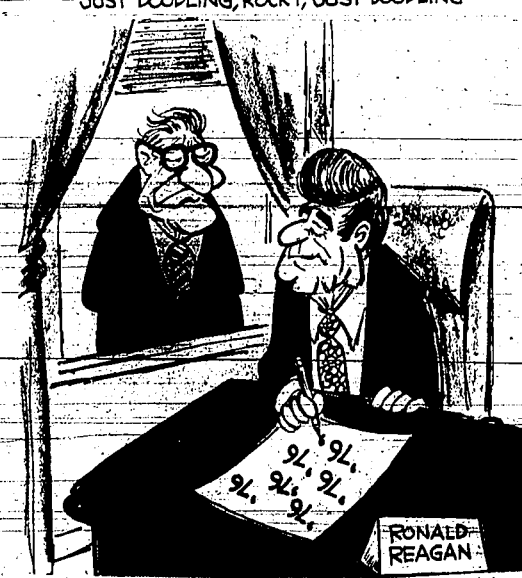

I understand that some of these owners have moved here from out-of-state. For those I say if you are looking for a warm welcome from me, you would find a warmer one in a deer forest.

I like kids and admire young people who have guts enough to try raising a family in times like these.

My children are grown and have left the roost, but I think a situation like this should not exist. There needs to be some help raising somewhere.

"JUST DOODLING, ROCKY, JUST DOODLING"

"The World War I veterans have become casualties in this country," Phalan said, "because they never received a pension."

Balloons the size of small blimps were sent up over the battle lines to spot enemy hiding places, Davidson said, and more often than not a bullet from a German sharpshooter would pop the fragile flying machines, sending American soldiers parachuting for safety.

"It was a wonder we didn't lose all those big sausage balloons," Williams laughed.

Gem work force climbs

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's work force and unemployed reached record highs during October, the State Department of Employment announced today.

The department said unemployment soared to an all-time high of 8.3 per cent, seasonally adjusted, or 30,800 persons out of work. At the same time, the agency added, the work force rose to 342,500.

"Unemployment was at the highest rate since 1960 when it attained a peak of eight per cent. The October figure also was a gain from 7.9 per cent recorded the previous month.

"In October, as in September, the manufacturing sector seemed to be the most affected," the department said. "The lumber industry was hit the hardest, adding people to the unemployment rolls at nearly twice the rate that is normal for this time of the year."

The department noted that in July 6.8 per cent

Gem road funding eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Harry Day, secretary to the Idaho Transportation Board, said Tuesday "no new road construction" can begin in the Gem State this fiscal year 1977 unless the state comes up with more than $10 million in funding.

He said critical financial problems stemming from spiraling inflation and decreasing gasoline tax revenues are seriously threatening highway programs in Idaho.

Day said the Idaho Legislature will be faced with matching $24 million in highway funding the coming fiscal year. He said it will be a critical year, adding unless the department is provided with an additional $10.6 million it will not be able to start any new construction.

Grain deal 'defusing' cited

BOISE (UPI) — The Soviet-American five year grain deal was one way to defuse the emotionalism and go-go effect on the market that such sales have had in the past, a U.S. Department of Agriculture official said today.

Peter Paul, director of the Export Sales Division, Foreign Agriculture Service, USDA, was the featured speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Idaho Association of Wheat Growers annual convention.

He quoted Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz as saying a year ago that there are situations in which the free market system of the United States does not seem to mesh with the secretive, controlled Soviet system.

Competition can be obtained only when information on supply and demand is known by all the people in world trade.

Russians seek control of Suez, US aides say

NEW YORK (UPI) — High U.S. military sources said today the Soviet Union is seeking three combination naval and missile bases in the Somali-Republic, which could afford the Russian control to the approaches to the Indian Ocean, the Suez Canal and the Persian Gulf.

Pentagon sources report that one base at Berbera is virtually finished and high Navy sources said the other two are in the early stages of construction. The bases would handle missiles and missile ships of the Soviet's Indian Ocean fleet.

In addition, the Soviets are building airport facilities capable of handling large jets and storage facilities for fuel for both aviation and naval units. The Navy sources said the Russians' intention was to operate both missile ships and aircraft at the western end of the Indian Ocean.

The Somali Republic, on the northeast coast of Africa, juts into the Indian Ocean like an eastern horn of Africa pointed at the Saudi Arabian peninsula and the Arabian Sea. Its northern coast is on the Gulf of Suez leading to the Red Sea and the Suez Canal.

UPI Pentagon correspondent John Milne, Washington, reported Tuesday that the Soviet Union has stationed a short-range guided missile patrol boat at Berbera on the north coast of Somalia, along with 15 to 20 antiship missiles.

Berbera is about 200 miles from the entrance to the Red Sea, which leads to the Suez Canal, and one Pentagon source said presence of the missile units there "is evidence of a major new weapons system being introduced into the Indian Ocean area."

By contrast, the nearest U.S. presence — except for naval vessels — is on the island of Diego Garcia in the Indian Ocean, about 1,800 miles east of Somalia. The Pentagon has used the placement of the Russian missiles at Berbera as an argument to get Congress to approve funds to complete a communication center and refueling base on Diego Garcia.

Portugal nears anarchy

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — A walkout by pro-government officers at one of Portugal's largest paratroop bases has left the divided armed forces one step closer to anarchy.

All but two of the 125 officers at Tancos air base demanded reassignment Tuesday, saying far-left enlisted men had brought about "the complete degradation" of the installation.

The commander and one other officer remained at the base, 77 miles north of Lisbon. The Socialist newspaper, Luta, said the commander, Col. Moura Caballero, only remained "to his duty."

The split stemmed from the policy-making Revolutionary Council's order last week for a paratroop force to follow up the transmitter of Radio Renascença, a station illegally occupied by far-left employees.

The enlisted men at Tancos denounced the order, but officers at the base put together a special paratroop force and put the station off the air.

The far-left newspaper República said Tuesday revolutionary left-wing soldiers throughout Portugal are organizing against "blind and militarist discipline."

The Communist-line newspaper Diário de Notícias said Brig. Franco Charais, commander of the central military region, told friends recently there would be a new revolution within six months.

"Six months from now, there is going to be a new 25th of April," Charais was quoted as saying.

The armed forces came to power April 25, 1974, in a military coup that ended a half-century of right-wing dictatorship in Portugal.

US seizes Polish ship

BOSTON (UPI) — The Coast Guard said it seized the 290-ton Polish ship Humbak early today for allegedly fishing within the 12-mile limit.

"This case will be turned over to the U.S. attorney," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The spokesman said guardsmen boarded the Humbak shortly after midnight about 20 miles east of Boston. There was no resistance.

The ship was to be brought in to Boston later today, accompanied by the Coast Guard cutter Biloxi.

"The vessel was allegedly fishing within the 12-mile contiguous fisheries zone."

Russ writer draws ire

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union has stripped author Vladimir I. Maximov of his citizenship, according to a decree published today but dated in January.

Maximov, 43, who now lives in Paris, is the author of "The Seven Days of Creation" and several other stories.

The decree, published in the official gazette of the Soviet parliament, said Maximov had "systematically undertaken actions besmirching the prestige of the Soviet Union and incompatible with the holding of Soviet citizenship."

Battle shaping

ROUGHEST campaign in Australian history is shaping up in advance of Dec. 13 parliamentary election ordered by Sir John Kerr, the governor general. He named Conservative Malcolm Fraser as caretaker prime minister, after ousting Gough Whitlam.

Fraser promptly became the target of Laborites. (UPI)

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A bloody feud between two rival Irish Republican Army factions today forced politicians supporting the warring groups to go into hiding.

Four persons were shot to death Tuesday in the worst day of fighting since the IRA feud erupted three weeks ago. A 16-year-old boy was wounded.

The slayings, part of a power struggle between the Provisional and Official wings of the IRA, raised the death toll to 1,358 in more than five years of religious warfare in Northern Ireland.

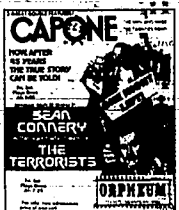

The two IRA factions split in 1970 because the Provisionals opposed a political settlement with Britain.

The Republican Club — the political voice of the Official IRA — advised members to stay away from their homes until the present wave of violence ends.

Sinn Féin, the political wing of the Provisional IRA, also told members to seek "safe houses."

Two men armed with a submachine gun and a rifle broke into the home of a Republican club member in Belfast Tuesday evening and opened fire.

The man, hit by 15 bullets, died instantly as he sat before a fireplace. His 16-year-old brother was shot several times in the legs, police said.

your health

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 My husband has emphysema and his friends have told him to move to another state. What is the best state, and how could it help? — Mrs. E.P.W.
 It may not be so much a matter of moving into another state as perhaps into another area within your state (or city). There does not seem to be any broad geographical factors in emphysema incidence.
 Emphysema, as you know, is the loss of lung elasticity resulting from damage to the tiny air sacs of the lungs. This results in a diminished ability to exchange oxygen from the air and carbon dioxide from the body. Breathing is made difficult.
 You should live, therefore, where the air is least polluted where oxygen is more readily available. High altitudes would be a disadvantage because of the thin atmosphere (less oxygen). You do not live in such an area now.

Emphysema problems

Probably more important than moving (you live in a relatively clean area) would be helping your husband learn to live with his problem where he is. Certain diaphragm exercises are helpful, and of course, it is important to have him give up cigarettes if he has not already done so.

There are many other ways to make life easier for the emphysema victim, but they are too lengthy to list here. Your husband should be encouraged to see a lung specialist, who can prescribe for his individual case.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 My doctor tells me that, if you have been heavily drugged and are in a stuporous condition, you should drink several cups of coffee, induce vomiting, and take strong laxatives to rid the body of the poison.

Also, he said to keep on your feet and keep moving. Don't lie down and go off to sleep or you may never awaken. Do you agree? — R.K.

In general: Yes, but read on:
 Alcohol, and other ingested drugs, are absorbed rather high in the gastrointestinal tract. A strong laxative is not necessary, and can dehydrate a person, adding to the problem.

I recall one occasion when I treated a problem like this — an alcoholic woman. All the steps you mentioned (with the exception of the laxative) were taken, but did not work. The woman's knees buckled while she was walking. She stopped breathing, and a fire department squad had to help me out with resuscitation. She did survive.

Maintaining breathing, then, is the prime concern. The reason one should not be allowed to go off to sleep is that many of the life-saving techniques mentioned cannot be administered to a sleeping person. Under such conditions he might well succumb. Most sedative drugs suppress breathing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
 My niece is 16 years old and is tall, thin. She has developed in every way and seems normal. But she has not had her menstrual period. We took her to her doctor and he said not to worry about it. What do you think? — R.M.

I think you should not worry about it.
 Amenorrhea (the absence of menstruation) is not suspected as a symptom of a disorder until at least the 18th year. And I assume her doctor has not found any glandular malfunction in her case.

DEAR ABBY: The partners who own the company I work for don't have time to check every detail of our company. The man they hired as manager (my boss) has been embezzling funds from the company.

I noticed the shortage when I returned from a sick leave about six months ago. When I confronted my boss with the shortage I found, he promptly told me as long as he was the boss he would run things his way. I was then told to take off the shortage as "entertainment expense." Things have been getting gradually worse. Funds amounting to $100 in cash are missing at the end of the week, company gas runs his family's three cars, checks for large amounts to companies with whom we have no dealings are made out for personal items he has purchased.

Should I tell the owners or wait until they find the shortages? I handle the money and pay the expenses of the company. I'm very upset by this and fear if I don't say something, I could be accused of covering up the shortage.
DISTRESSED EMPLOYEE

Accessory to crime

DEAR ABBY: You are being maneuvered into the crime of "misprision"—concealment of another's felony. And if you knowingly falsify records, you then become an accessory to the crime. Of course you should tell the owners what your boss is doing! Failing to do so could get you into big trouble.

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago, I met this man. He's handsome, sweet and kind. He's new in this city and lives down the street in a boarding house.

I suppose I should be honest and tell you that we had sex first time we were together, and I've been going to his place as often as I can ever since.

He told me he loved me, and I think I am in love with him.

Last week he said his landlady doesn't approve of my going to visit him, and she wants it stopped. How old am I? Just 14. My parents don't let me take company, and I hate to sneak out to see him, but I can't stay away from him.

I don't want to get hurt, but I haven't the willpower to stop. Please help.
YOUNG AND FOOLISH

DEAR YOUNG: You named yourself appropriately. This man has used you, and now he is trying to tell you that he's not interested in you. You are a minor, and as such, you could be in serious trouble if the landlady decides to call the Stay away from him! He's bad news!

Miss Dorland, Powers recite vows

TWIN FALLS — Lee Ann Dorland and Mike Powers were married Oct. 24 in the First Presbyterian Church, Logan, Utah, at 7 in the evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Alban, Twin Falls, and J. J. Dorland, San Jose, Calif., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Powers, Brigham City, Utah.

Rev. Miner Bruner performed the double-ring ceremony amid a triangle of candles decorated with blue daisies, baby's breath, greenery and royal blue candles. The candelabras were flanked by baskets of green gladiolus and spider chrysanthemums and blue carnations.

Jane Lockhart, vocalist, and Christy Vale, guitarist, sang the wedding song, "The Wedding Song," before the ceremony. Miss Lockhart was accompanied by Dr. Thomas Buhler, organist, in the Lord's Prayer during the service. Traditional wedding music was presented by Dr. Buhler for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white organza gown with a flounce, attached with applied chantilly lace, flowing banded edgeline sleeves and cuffs.

Matching lace also edged the full chapel-length illusion veil attached to a Juliet cap of chantilly lace embroidered with seed pearls.

The bride bouquet was an arrangement of white roses, blue pixie carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath with blue and white calla lilies. The bride wore her mother's antique silver and moss agate ring.

Maid of honor was Carolyn Hall and bridesmaids were Jill Schultz and Kim Thomas, all of Twin Falls, and Peggy Mitchell of Salt Lake City. The flower girl was the bride's sister, Janine Dorland, of San Jose.

Bob Christensen came from California to be best man, and ushers were Sigma Chi Fraternity brothers Rick Olson, Francis Jacobs and Brent Balters. The groom's brother, Gary Powers, served as bell ringer, and the bride's brother, Dean Dorland, escorted their mother Ringbearer was Mike Fraley of Twin Falls.

The couple was honored at a reception at the Logan Elks Lodge immediately following the ceremony. The wedding party received guests before white organza draperies accented with green and flanked by the candelabra and flower arrangements and a gift fountain. The bride's table covered with a white lace cloth was decorated with a coordinated flower arrangement.

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with fresh flowers. The cake was served to the bride party and families by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Arlo Shelley of American Fork. Several sorority sisters assisted in serving.

Joan Marshall of Twin Falls was in charge of the guest book and Judy Knox of Twin Falls and Susan Olson of Logan were in charge of gifts.

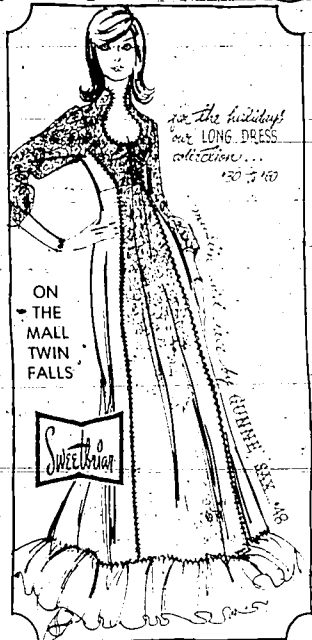

Honored guests at the wedding and reception were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Stewart of American Fork; and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Dorland of Cucamonga, Calif., and the bridegroom's grandmother.

Mrs. G. Powers of Brigham City. Other relatives and friends attended from throughout Utah, Idaho, Arizona, Oregon and California.

An open house was held in Twin Falls at the home of the bride's mother Oct. 26. Refreshments were prepared for the open house by Mrs. Hubert Kellner and Mrs. Carl Miller. The flowers and candles were arranged in blue-green pottery of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Henry Wills, for the serving table.

The bride was honored in Twin Falls at a coffee given by Mrs. Wills and in Logan at a shower given by her Chi Omega Sorority sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Powers are at home in Logan.

Concert Thursday

FILER — The Filer High School music department autumn concert will be at 8 p.m. Thursday at the High School auditorium.

A program of popular and semi-classical numbers has been prepared by the concert choir under the direction of Mrs. Claire Theener.

The concert band, directed by Ron Koford will play three numbers, two of which are patriotic in nature.

There will be a small admission charge.

DAR chapter plans state meet in TF

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution were told during a meeting Saturday that they will be asked to help with the state conference.

Mrs. Gerald Ridgeway, regent, said the meeting will be in March in Twin Falls.

Mrs. Bascom Stevens read the president's message and Mrs. George Detweiler gave the national defense report.

Members were asked to make their own cancellations with Colonial House if they are unable to attend meetings.

Mrs. C.J. Silger, flag chairman, introduced Rev. Eugene Tarks, Our Savior Lutheran Church. He spoke on "The American—Flag—and You."

Mrs. Silger presented him with a flag lapel pin. The Christmas meeting will be a silver tea at 2 p.m. Dec. 11 at the home of Mrs. Mahlon Neumann. Guests will be welcome. Mrs. Walter Seiften, Buhi, and Mrs. L.C. Scott will speak.

Magazines needed

JEROME — The Jerome Lincoln Elementary School's media center is in need of old magazines to use in its teaching program.

Carol Robertson, media specialist, said the articles and pictures are used as teaching aids and the magazines which are the most benefit to the program include National Geographic, Desert, Arizona Highways, Ideal, Good Housekeeping, Women's Day and Cricket.

Anyone wishing to donate magazines in the school may drop them in the upstairs of the office or call Carol for more information.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

When you use two bids in diamonds, hearts and spades as weak bids you retain two clubs to cover normal forcing bids in all four suits. In addition, you suddenly develop a valuable by-product. You find that your two-club opening which is both artificial and forcing will also be used with certain strong notrump hands.

Specifically, we use it to show a 23-24 point or 27 or higher point notrump.

There are any number of ways to respond to this forcing bid. The simplest one is what we recommend. We use two diamonds as a complete negative. Specifically, a hand with no ace or king and not more than one queen. Two hearts becomes a catch-all to cover all hands that include some values. South's two-club notrump rebid indicates a 23-

24 point notrump hand. North raises to three. The same contract would be reached under any bidding system and makes easily.

Ask the Jacobys

A Quebec reader wants to know if we would open a weak two bid in fourth seat with:
♠ KK10865 ♥ A752 ♦ 53 ♦ 2
The answer to that one is a decided no. The hand is too strong offensively with its 6-4-2-1 distribution and too strong defensively with its three quick tricks. We open one spade any seat irrespective of what system we are playing.

Gem senator set for race

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

FIRTH — Stan Kress, a state senator from Firth, and four prominent district 2 Democrats announced the formation of a Kress for Congress Committee today.

"It's not a formal announcement on my part" for the district's Democratic Party nomination for Congress, Kress said. "But I don't want to be coy about it. We, of course, are very serious about it or we wouldn't have formed the committee," he said.

Kress, 32, Firth superintendent of schools, said his final decision on whether to run would be based mostly on "the type of support we're going to get." So far, he said, the support has been "very favorable."

His decision should be made by the first of next year, but may not be announced until the end of the legislature, Kress said. He said he is investigating how such an announcement might affect his work as a state senator. "If it would be negative in any way, we would wait," he said.

Kress said the campaign committee is being formed now to insure that his efforts are in full compliance with campaign finance disclosure laws which require all income and expenditures be reported from the start of a race.

Four prominent district 2 Democrats have taken official positions in the committee. Richard Stallings, Ricks College professor of political science, will co-chair the committee with Lynn Broadhead, Blackfoot lumber dealer and former administrative assistant to ex-congressman Ralph Harding.

George Willmore, a 1968 congressional candidate and Rexburg businessman, will serve as the committee's finance chairman. Pocatello attorney and former state legislator Robert Huntley is the announced treasurer for the group.

Speaking for the committee Stallings said, "It is apparent that the present congressman is unrealistic about the needs of the district and how to be effective on behalf of Idaho. The broad generalities of his campaign slogans have resulted in totally negative representation for his constituents. We became interested in Kress, because, in contrast, he hears well and is well heard."

"Kress said he was looking towards a 'very positive campaign' oriented around issues, and not toward becoming 'embroiled as to what was or what was not proper about the last campaign' of his potential opponent, Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho."

The formation of a campaign committee is "the most positive step that any Democrat has taken so far" toward mounting a candidacy, he said.

Kress was raised on a farm in the Rökland Valley and attended schools in American Falls. He is a graduate of Ricks College, Idaho State University and Brigham Young University. Kress and his wife have four children and live on a farm near Firth.

today in brief

Wendell vote set

WENDELL — Wendell High District No. 6 will elect one commissioner for a four-year term from Sub-district No. 3 on Dec. 1. Voting will be held at the city hall from 1 to 7 p.m. according to Gwen Collett, city clerk.

A petition has been filed for Oliver Johnson for the post currently held by Kirby Hill. Halverson commissioners are Ben Kober and William Higgins both men.

Camas schools lose funds

FAIRFIELD — The Camas County School District is losing about $7,500 because of cutbacks in federal impact funds. Supt. Harold Stroud said Tuesday.

He said the Camas County district has between 40 to 50 students whose parents are employed on federal lands and so qualify the district for funds under Public Law 874.

The district budgeted for $12,000 from this source, but because of cuts in funding, will receive about $1,500. Stroud said trustees decided they would just have to "cut a little here and there."

"There is no easy way to cut a budget," Stroud said, "because the majority of the money goes for teacher salaries."

He said about half of the students in the countywide district reside in Fairfield.

Kimberly holiday unexpected

KIMBERLY — Kimberly grade school students got an unexpected holiday Tuesday not because of Veterans Day, but thanks to furnace trouble.

Supt. Vernon Essner said schools were back in session today and the faulty furnace valve had been repaired. The valve problem caused water to come through the steam radiator in one room. The school has a coal-fired furnace which generates steam heat.

Kindergarten classes plan move

RICHFIELD — Kindergarten classes for the community of Richfield will be moved from the LDS Church to the school building, Supt. Nell Anderson said Tuesday.

The move may take up to 10 days because it requires "juggling" location of several classes, with the kindergarten classes to be housed in the present second grade room.

Murtaugh eyes cooperative classes

MURTAUGH — Murtaugh school trustees are studying possibility of having cooperative classes with Hansen High School, Supt. Florin Hulse said Tuesday.

He said such a plan would mean students would be offered a wider curriculum without each district having to add teachers. This would apply to such classes as advanced math, chemistry and physics.

These last two subjects are offered on alternate years at Murtaugh and under a cooperative curriculum setup, they probably would be offered yearly, Hulse said.

Student speak-ups begin

RUPERT — Student speak-ups on the Minidoka County School District needs assessment began Friday.

They will continue this week in all the district schools and on an evening speak-up Wednesday at two schools.

All district residents are being invited to offer their views at the two meetings at 8 p.m. today and East and West Minidoka Junior High Schools.

The comprehensive needs assessment is being conducted by the district to determine the learner needs at all schools in the district. Its purpose is to provide better programs to meet those needs.

Speakers bureau at Buhl will promote HS bond vote

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

BUHL — A speakers bureau has been organized to promote the $2.3 million bond election Nov. 20 for a new Buhl High School.

Gary Loomis, teacher at College of Southern Idaho who lives at Buhl, heads the bureau. It was reported at the Buhl School Board meeting here Monday night.

Dale Thornberry, high school principal, said anyone wanting a speaker on the upcoming bond vote can contact Loomis at his home, 543-5815, or call the high school.

The principal said copies of the preliminary floor plan for the proposed school will be available hopefully by next Monday at the high school.

Trustees were given a strong suggestion to analyze the policy of having students sell magazines or other items to raise money.

George Albins, trustee, said four persons have indicated they'd rather give money. Instead of having students selling items door to door.

Thornberry, and Geoff Igarashi, band director who presented trustees a tentative travel schedule for the music groups, both agreed eliminating the selling projects would be "wonderful." If funds were still forthcoming.

Both Igarashi and Brent Blackburn, drama instructor, were told their out of town trips would depend on finances. Blackburn was told if he took 12 students to the Theatre Arts Festival Jan. 22-24 in Boise he would have to cut some other activity.

The music teachers, Supt. Dan Mabe and Thornberry will work on estimated expenses for the music trips.

Luke Simmer Jr. urged trustees to publicize more information on the bond proposal so it will be approved. He also said it was the first bond meeting he'd attended where the members whisper.

Sonner also urged improved maintenance of school grounds and said voters would like to be assured if "we get a new building it will be cared for."

He lives adjacent to the junior high school and complained of broken sidewalks and unkempt grounds and trees.

Jeri Enkeling, government teacher, said the 90 seniors have voted to have graduation gowns of red, white and blue.

Lee Popplewell, elementary principal, was told to proceed with plans for a school needs assessment study mandated by the Idaho Department of Education.

Bible studies OK at Hailey

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — The Mormon Church has received permission from the District of School Board to take LDS high school students out of Wood River High School part of the day to study the Old and New Testament.

A contingent of LDS officials told the school board the church wants to build a new seminary building near the new Wood River High School and the Carey School. They said approval of a "release time" during regular school hours at the two Blaine County high schools would help efforts to organize the church study program.

Details of the church study program remain to be decided, but the Mormon group said tentative plans are to have a teacher at Wood River High School in the mornings and at the Carey School in the afternoons.

Val Parke, Mormon spokesman, said the church is looking at ground on McCulloch Woodside Properties Inc. subdivision which will be within walking distance of the new high school now under construction.

The Idaho Department of Education allows credit for both the Old and New Testament, Parke said.

"We do teach other classes that are more to our own beliefs, which the state does not allow credit for," he said.

Currently the Mormons are conducting early morning seminary before school starts, but Parke admitted attendance is not what it could be.

"The basic goal, of course, is to increase our enrollment," Parke said. He said new seminary buildings at Carey, a community of nearly all Mormons, and Wood River High School would strengthen the Mormon program.

John Barton, Wood River High School principal, said students now have one or two free periods during the day, which could be used for seminary attendance.

Blaine Supt. Wayne Fagg said the Mormon seminary program is one of the best organized of all church groups. Fagg was superintendent of the Minidoka School District before moving to Blaine County. He said "we had absolutely no trouble from the program there."

Dr. Paul Houston, board member, asked Fagg the scope of the seminary program across the state. Fagg replied seminary buildings appear next to nearly every school from Rupert on into Eastern Idaho.

Dr. Art Richards, board member, said "I feel religious training is something sadly lacking today in our school systems."

Board member Ronda Hunt said "Well I certainly feel this way. I think it behooves us to work with these groups."

The seminary building cannot be on the school grounds, Fagg said, according to state law.

The Mormon group said it had been looking at property on the McCulloch subdivision and possibly have a building constructed as early as next year.

The board voted unanimously to cooperate and grant released time when the Mormons are ready to start their program.

Gooding trustees eye school plans

GOODING — Future school building plans were discussed at the Gooding trustee meeting Tuesday night.

Supt. Jim Muscat said district needs include additional space at the grade school, so that kindergarten classes can be conducted there, more classrooms at the junior high school and high school facilities for agriculture and shop.

Presently the only shop facilities are at the junior high school for students in that school. Senior high students wanting to take ag courses must use the ag building at the junior high school.

Muscat said the board is awaiting direction from the Idaho Board of Education as to guidelines for space and other requirements before completing further plans.

Trustees also discussed the cooperative program with Wendell and Hagerman districts for hiring a speech therapist.

They approved an agreement with the Idaho

Land Board, new landlord for the old tuberculosis hospital. The Gooding district holds kindergarten classes in Tyler Hall, and formerly rented the space from the Idaho Health and Welfare Department.

In other business, trustees: Approved use of the gymnasium for a country music show Dec. 8 for Marie Bolton, whose son and husband died when their home burned Oct. 31.

Hired Loretta Malea as a teacher's aide and Peggy Hammond on the Frahm Junior High School apical staff.

Approved offering driver education courses both in the spring and summer of 1976.

Discussed completion of the tennis courts and baseball diamond, financed by the city district and city of Gooding with matching funds from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. The entire project is valued at $84,000. Muscat said.

Wendell plans land sale

WENDELL — The city of Wendell goes into the real estate business tomorrow night.

Six parcels of land, all zoned commercially, will be offered at a public auction at 8 p.m. in the Wendell City Hall.

John Wert, Wendell, Messersmith Auctioneers, Twin Falls, will conduct the auction. Bids will have to exceed the appraised value of the parcels, which have been appraised individually.

Gwen Collett, city clerk, said the parcels, each of which is either a block or half block in area, will be offered for sale separately but Wert also will ask for a bid on the entire property.

The property is located about one-half mile from Interstate 80 in the southwest part of Wendell and two of the parcels are adjacent to the railroad spur.

Mrs. Collett said the council decided to sell the lots to get them on the tax rolls to "create a little revenue for the city." Councilmen are hoping that some of the land will be used for industry, she said.

At present the land has been used for agriculture by persons leasing the ground from the city.

Warranty deed and title insurance will be furnished by the city and all sales in full blocks will be closed if the buyer desires.

Rupert aides control funds

By SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News writer

RUPERT — County Commissioners have taken direct command of administering indigent aid money in Minidoka County.

They placed Melvina Metzner in complete charge of aid applications under $50 when the commissioners are not available. She is to contact Chairman Lyle Barton on all higher amounts.

Indigent aid previously has been determined by County Clerk August Bethke when the commissioners were not in session. Mrs. Metzner usually handled the applications, with Bethke approving any aid.

Commissioners have questioned aid on several occasions this year, saying they have received some complaints about leniency.

Bull Barton said Tuesday that the move was made to make certain the county is complying with the Idaho Code.

Subsistence payments to indigents through the first eight months this year more than doubled all of 1974, although this was partially blamed on a mild spring.

Minidoka County paid out $8,693 in the first eight months of 1975 for subsistence. The total for 1974 was $4,076.

Bethke Tuesday told commissioners he had no objections to a change, but said he did not want to be left with only partial authority.

Deputy Pres. Atty. Robert Nielsen told the commissioners that it has the ultimate responsibility under the Idaho Code because it provides the funds.

Hospital razed

THE former Gooding County hospital is being razed to make way for a new Safeway store. The old structure has been vacant since the new Gooding Memorial Hospital was built in 1970.

Jim Hines, Gooding Safeway store manager, said plans are to build a new store sometime in 1976.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market opened higher Wednesday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average was ahead 1.18 points to 839.74 shortly after the opening. Advances led issues, 234 to 91, among the 300 lines crossing the tape.

Hopes a resolution of New York City's financial crisis was in the works have buoyed some investor enthusiasm the last two days.

Food River Valley:
A warming trend and fair night, becoming partly cloudy Thursday. Highs

Thursday near 40. Low tonight 5 to 10. The outlook for Friday, slight chance of showers.

Synopsis:
The fair weather is due to the presence of a large high pressure system over the western United States. Clouds from the Pacific are moving around the high pressure and into western Canada. A few clouds will move across the northern tip of Idaho this ternoon, but no appreciable amounts of precipitation expected.

The high pressure system expected to remain over the Magic Valley area for the next two days, moving very slowly eastward. This will allow for a more southerly flow of air from the southern Idaho and sufficient sunshine for a warming trend the next two days.

A weak front in the eastern Pacific may approach thern Idaho Thursday bringing enough moisture for a few showers in the past few days and increasing cloudiness in southern Idaho.

A few morning low temperatures included: Fairfield and five degrees below zero, McCall.

The extended outlook for the weekend calls for a chance for scattered showers at times with highs 45 to 55 and lows 25 to 35.

Outstanding farmer pick due Thursday in Minico

RUPERT — The Outstanding Farmer of the Year in Minidoka County will be announced Thursday.

The award will be made at the annual Rupert Chamber of Commerce Businessman-Farmer Banquet. The dinner will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at St. Nicholas Catholic Church Parish hall in Rupert.

Speaker for the event will be Cecil A. Thompson, corrections coordinator for the state Law Enforcement Planning Commission in Boise. Miss Idaho, Teri Harding of Heyburn, will also be a guest.

Thompson has held his present post since 1972. Before that, he spent two years as juvenile delinquency and correctional specialist for the commission.

He is a former Nampa policeman and was a Canyon County juvenile probation officer.

Candidates for this year's Farmer of the Year include David Knopp, Walter Kraus, Ross Hunsaker, Wendell Dean and Warren Helms.

Their farms were toured on July 31 by Judges Leo Busch, Bureau of Reclamation; Keith Merrill, former Minico agriculture teacher; Blaine Lintford, University of Idaho extension service; and Jan Fleenor.

The award is for a husband-and-wife team, with both the farms and homes of the candidates judged.

Knopp farms 100 acres in two locations just west of Rupert. He has worked the same farm for 28 years.

Knopp uses gravity flow irrigation for his crops of beans, hay, grain and cattle. He is sponsored by the Rupert Grange.

Kraus farms 280 acres south of Rupert. He is sponsored by the Valley Livestock Commission.

He has been on the same farm for 30 years. He raises corn, grain, beans and hay and about 200 head of cattle.

Hunsaker has farmed 1,850 acres near Minidoka for four years. He is sponsored by the Rupert Kiwanis Club.

Hunsaker primarily uses sprinkler irrigation on his Mainline Ranches, Inc., operation. He uses a beet-grain rotation and employs three men full time, 10 in the summer months.

Dean farms 770 acres north of Minidoka with sprinkler irrigation. He is sponsored by the Rupert Rotary Club.

He raises potatoes, grain and beefs with two rotation systems.

Helms operates a 3,200-acre farm north of Minidoka with the help of his sons. He is sponsored by the Rupert Lions Club.

Helms runs a herd of commercial cattle, as well as raising purebred Polled Herefords. He also raises potatoes, grain and hogs.

Past winners of the award include Max Fife in 1974, Frank Rohlfheiser in 1973, Dave Kraus in 1972, Jake Kraus in 1971 and Leonard Schenk in 1970.

The judges were to consider community activity in the last three years, a general impression and the farmers' attitudes toward the farming community. They also were to judge general appearance of the home and farm, utilization of resources, adequacy and condition of machinery, conservation practices and their impression of the farming operation.

Tuesday futures prices lower almost everywhere

(Courtesy Sinclair & Co.) CHICAGO — Lower, almost everywhere.

That's the direction the commodity futures market took Tuesday.

Potato futures — both Maine and Idaho — closed down the limit. The May delivery of Idaho russets lost 2 cents, permissible 50 cents and closed at 9.85 per hundredweight.

Commodity News Service said the Maine May 'spud' delivery also lost the permissible 50 cents, closing at 10.50 percent.

Live cattle lost in listless trade of 6,100 contracts which covered a narrow range of 30 cents in the most active contract after a short-lived early rebound from a lower opening.

December dropped 37 cents and February lost 27 cents. Some of the sluggishness was attributed to the Veterans Day holiday. Cash was barely steady to weaker ahead of this week's cattle on feed report.

Hog futures were about the only commodity closing higher, with the back months at the day's best levels as a result of a late rally. Final prices showed December up 12 points, February up 55 and June up 90. Volume was placed at 7,172 contracts. Cash markets were lower despite an undern of hogs.

Pork bellies remained on the defensive most of the day, with July's only contract down 10 points, settlement level, and then only briefly.

February closed 80 points down and July was 15 lower, with final prices midway between the highs and lows for the day. Cash prices were encouraging, but there was concern over a projected kill of around 250,000 head.

Corn posted losses of 2 to 3 cents as steady commercial selling prompted long liquidation after the market first. Earlier, the crop production report — interpreted as friendly to the market — advanced prices up to 4 cents, but carryover figures weighed on the market.

Chicago cash basis decreased 3 cents at 13 under December, while the Gulf basis was steady, 5 to 10 cents over Chicago December.

Wheat tumbled from the plus side after the noon hour, closing at new lows about 9 cents off the Tuesday final.

Early gains were attributed to positive feelings about the federal crop estimate figures for corn and soybeans and strong weekly grain inspections. Positive effects were eroded, however, by thoughts of bumper fall crops atop abundant wheat supplies.

Chicago soft red winter cash basis was up 7 cents to 3 under Chicago December, and the hard winter basis was nominally unchanged at 10 under Chicago December.

Soybeans and products were the best performers early on the friendly attitude of the crop report, but those early gains were erased as the day wore on. Commercial pressure started an avalanche of long liquidation and stop loss selling which turned gains of 8 to 9 cents into 12 to 16 cent losses for beans. There was some good early commercial support in meal dealing but it was generally absent in the all-trade.

Soil moisture down

PORTLAND (UPI) — The Water Forecasting Unit of the Soil Conservation Service reported Monday watershed soil moisture is below average in Idaho due to dry weather in September.

The Conservation Service said the soil will require more of this coming winter's snowpack than normal to replace the moisture deficiency. Officials reported that reservoir storage has remained good in the Gem state, despite the dry September period and there are more average carryover supplies for 1976.

All classes post gains at Rupert

RUPERT — The market was higher on all classes at the Valley Livestock Commission Co. Monday.

Cattle sold 50 cents to 1.00 higher. Feeders were 1.00 to 2.00 higher. Cows sold strong to .50 cents higher. Hogs were strong and lambs were steady.

A total of 2,467 cattle were sold with 61 hogs, 23 sheep and 4 horses.

Sheep, fat lambs, 42.00-44.00; killer ewes, medium to good, 30.00-32.00.

Hogs, butcher hogs, 48.00-51.25; feeder pigs, 35.00-45.00; weaners by the head, 25.00-40.00; sows, 35.00-37.00.

John Hancock, president of the Second Continental Congress, was very upset over the choice of George Washington as the Continental Army's first commander-in-chief. He wanted the job for himself and was even more unhappy when his fellow Bostonian John Adams proposed Washington for the post.

Holly settles out of court

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Holly Sugar Corp. Monday agreed to pay $5 million in an out-of-court settlement of antitrust charges filed by a number of the firm's commercial customers.

"In taking this action, Holly makes no concession that it has engaged in any wrongful activity," a company spokesman said. "However, from a practical standpoint, continuing litigation expenses of a substantial nature, the tremendous burdens of time required of Holly personnel and the overall disruption of Holly's business militate strongly in favor of a settlement such as this."

Holly and two other sugar companies were indicted by the Justice Department last year on charges of violating the Sherman Antitrust Act in their marketing activities. Holly pleaded innocent to both indictments and was fined $100,000.

The private suits subsequently were filed in U.S. District Court in California by a number of Holly customers seeking damages against the firm for alleged price fixing.

Under terms of Monday's agreement, those plaintiffs who agree to participate in the settlement will drop their lawsuits against Holly. Those who do not take part would be allowed to pursue their claims on an individual basis.

Holly also said it would withdraw its counterclaims against those plaintiffs who abide by the agreement. The settlement leaves only two civil suits filed by the government outstanding against Holly.

Agricultural exports: our balance with the world.

This country needs the income derived from exporting our surplus food. Such income keeps our trade in balance with the rest of the world. And it keeps our dollars in balance. The exporting of our food pays for the large amount of oil and other items we import. The U.S.D.A. estimates that out of an expected wheat crop of some 2.2 billion bushels, only 800 million is needed at home. So if our farm surplus were not exported, it would have to be stockpiled. Agricultural exports are needed. They are our balance with the world.

Bruins drop Minico 31-8 to complete 7-3 season

Twin Falls nailed down its fourth best season in 25 years Tuesday by dropping the Minico Spartans 31-8.

Neither team managed any offensive consistency in the uninspired play as Minico's passing attack didn't work until the closing two minutes and Twin Falls kept itself bottled up on several occasions with over 100 yards in penalties.

The victory was the seventh in 10 outings for Twin Falls while Minico ended the year at 2-8.

Twin Falls exploded for its first touchdown as Mike Allison ripped for 22 yards in two carries, scoring from the nine on the second one. But after that Minico and penalties kept them from putting a sustained march together.

Allison's touchdown came after Minico had to punt three plays into the game. It was a short kick, which Bob Lalliani returned seven yards and picked up 15 more on a face mask violation to return the ball to exactly when Minico had started at Gene Turley booted the first of four straight extra points.

On its next possession Twin Falls picked up 40 yards in five plays but had to punt since it also collected 43 yards in penalties in three plays.

The rest of the quarter passed in fumble and punt trading.

The fumbles culminated in the late first and early second quarter. Minico fumbled at the Twin Falls 37 with the Bruin fumbling right back. Minico then fumbled again, but recovered itself and on the next play threw a pass which Bruin Line backer Brent Thomas intercepted and returned 60 yards to score.

Again nothing happened until the final minute when Minico was sacked trying to throw on a fourth down at the Twin Falls 40. Jeff Osborne then hit Randy Barbour twice and Craig Nielsen once for short gains to the Spartan 12 and on the last play of the half Turley drilled a 20-yard field goal.

Minico made a good drive early in the second half, marching from its own 20 to the Twin Falls 25 before the Bruins held on downs. Twin Falls punched out one first down before Osborne went to a play-action pass, found Nielsen wide open over the middle. The play covered 60 yards and the score four seconds into the final quarter.

Twin Falls threatened again after a Cliff Gambrel interception at the Spartan 39 but the Spartans killed that by piling a pass at the six just six plays later.

A surprising six-yard punt occurred seconds later. A Bruin nearly blocked the kick. Forced to hurry, the Minico punter kicked the ball on the top point and crammed it into the ground. It died at the 15.

Four plays later Ken Sumac hit leaping Kenny King for the touchdown.

The ensuing squib kick was bounced around by Minico until Twin Falls covered at the Spartan 19. On the first play McFarland romped for 16 yards to the three but Twin Falls couldn't score.

Minico then put quarterback T. Escala at runningback and inserted Brent Reddeopp at quarterback. Those two took turns in passing as the Spartans moved 81 yards for their touchdown. It came on a five-yard pass from Reddeopp to Mike Albert with 10 seconds left. Reddeopp rolled out for the two-point.

Basketball requires help, McGuire says

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Frank McGuire has seen a lot of basketball in 23 years as a head coach at St. John's, North Carolina and South Carolina. But the nattily dressed Irishman is worried that the game may need an injection of excitement.

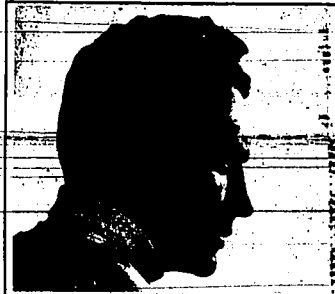

McGuire, whose 471 career victories and .725 victory percentage rank him among the nation's top five active coaches, said in an interview Tuesday that fans want a livelier game and will not keep paying higher prices without getting more razzle-dazzle.

"If we charge $5 a ticket, we've got to give the people something to look at," he said.

McGuire suggested three changes that he thinks would improve the game and maintain strong fan interest: restore the dunk, add a 30-second shot clock and allow a team to take the ball out of bounds without an official's handling it.

The stuff shot is basketball's version of the home run and should be restored," said McGuire. Who sandwiched a year as coach of the Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association in between coaching jobs at South Carolina and North Carolina.

"Even during a dull practice it picks up the players," he said. The dunk is permitted in the pros but the NCAA has prohibited it on the grounds that it is potentially injurious to players and costly in that glass backboards would have to be replaced more frequently.

CSI opens exhibition year in Twin Falls and Burley

College of Southern Idaho's Golden Eagles go on display for the first time Thursday and Friday nights at the CSI and Burley high school gymnasiums.

Coach Boyd Grant's crew will meet a group of former Weber players now playing AAU ball for Sav-On Drug of Ogden. The game is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. Thursday at CSI and 8:15 p.m. Friday at Burley.

All proceeds will go to the Shrine crippled children's center.

"We're at that point that we need a game," said Coach Grant, whose crew has been working out daily since Aug. 25. "In fact, we might not learn much more without game experience... let them make a mistake, take them off the floor and explain it to them on the bench. That's generally the best way to get the last of the coaching done," he smiled.

CSI should be healthy with the exception of sophomore transfer Eric Hovey who, due to flu, will see little if any action either night.

Sav-On Drug will have good height and experience but will be shorter than the Eagles. However, Coach Grant said the Utahns had been playing several times a week and considered them several in pretty good condition. That takes one advantage away that college teams usually have against outlaws groups.

Gus Chapman will give Ogden the tallest man at 6'9 but CSI replies with three men at 6'8, all-American Ken Davis, a starter last year, and sophomore transfers Ed Nichols from Rice and Gene Bowen from Gardner-Webb.

The remainder of the Sav-On team includes Brady Small, 5'10; Riley Wimberly 6'5; Steve Glenning, 6'3; Gary Strong, 6'4; Brad Tarscheck, 6'6; Ed Tilman, 6'1; and Larry Campbell, 6'1.

Coach Grant replies with returning starter Andre Wakeloid, 6'3; frosh Dwight Williams, 6'0; Buffalo, N.Y.: soph Jeff Wiggam, Indiana; frosh Kim Goetz, Moscow; frosh John Dinkersloot, 6'6; Buhl; frosh Dennis Bowyer, 6'6; Twin Falls; frosh Bruce Ware, 6'3; Gooding; frosh Dean Harding, 6'0; Rupert; frosh Jim Marshall, 5'11; Fort Collins, Colo.; and Hovey, 6'1, Twin Falls.

Special attractions at Twin Falls will be a girls volleyball exhibition among four area high school teams preceding the game and the second annual grudge match between the Twin Falls Rotarians and Knights of Columbus.

Southeast Idaho faces phosphate boom

By ROYCE WILLIAMS

EDITORIAL NOTE: This is the first of five articles assessing the impact of proposed phosphate mining in southeast Idaho. Included is the area's mineral resources, phosphate, fish and game has been able to obtain to date. A draft environmental statement is due in December, and the final statement is scheduled for mid-1976.

Taking shape at this moment are plans that could literally tear the southeast corner of Idaho upside-down.

Stretched over the next 25 years could be an impact on fish and wildlife on a scale unequalled in the state's history.

The plans are for phosphate mining.

Growing out of a need for food and the shift to marginal farmland to grow it, the demand for phosphate fertilizer has turned miners' eyes toward southeast Idaho.

It is estimated that 35 per cent of the country's phosphate reserves lie in this corner of the state. Other states with phosphate are Florida, North Carolina and Tennessee.

Florida's mines are considered at their peak today with declining supplies expected from that source.

Tennessee supplies five per cent of the U.S. phosphate.

North Carolina's and Florida's phosphate is 81 percent of the United States' production.

Phosphate in these states make up 44 per cent of the world's reserves. Moroccan reserves are the largest, estimated at 56 per cent of the world's supply, but given as a reason for southeast Idaho development is the move by the U.S. away from dependence on foreign sources.

Also part of this argument is the disruption of the balance of payments should the U.S. depend upon Morocco.

In Idaho, the phosphate field lies east of the Fort Hall Indian Reservation and the Wasatch Mountains to the Wyoming border. The Caribou Range forms the northern border, Utah the southern border.

Bonneville, Bingham, Caribou and Bear Lake counties have so far been included in proposed mining plans.

Leases—already committed to 670 acres to open at mining, and four mines currently are active. These four mines produce about 4.8 million tons of phosphate a year.

This is expected to triple to 15 million tons by 1980 and reach 20 million tons by 1990.

Eight companies holding valid leases on federal lands are proposing 16 new mining operations. Applications for prospecting permits enlarge the phosphate mining area by about 121,000 acres. Numerous applications are expected for prospecting permits on the remainder of the field for mining.

Also, land-use permits for haul roads, conveyor systems, railroads, power lines, natural gas lines, plant sites, tailing ponds and dump sites, are expected to multiply.

Five major plants already process the phosphate mined in the area, and four new plants are expected by 1981.

Possible sites are near Diamond Creek, Bear Lake Valley, Dry Valley and near Soda Springs.

A plant in Georgetown, Canyon, could possibly be reactivated.

Most of the mines themselves will be open pits. They will stretch thousands of feet in length. Because of the character of the phosphate beds, the mines will form elongated V's cutting down into the tops of ridges and mountains.

The trenches will range up to several hundred feet in depth and slopes of each V will form steep cliffs.

The ratio of phosphate ore to waste material is estimated at one ton phosphate ore to 35 tons of waste. This ratio could climb as high as nine to 10 tons of waste per ton of ore, should economic and technological developments allow removal of more of the phosphate beds.

Rehabilitation efforts on waste area have shown little in the way of returning the area to its original forage production.

The extent of conveyors, railroads, hauling roads and other services is unknown, but is expected to be massive. Energy consumption estimates in the form of electricity, natural gas, diesel fuel and gasoline are equally massive. New coal-fired plants such as Bridger plant in Wyoming may be needed to supply needed electrical energy.

Population projections, based on the mining already proposed, are expected to substantially increase the number of people in the four counties involved so far.

If phosphate uses today held firm, most of the phosphate is 85 per cent — will be used for fertilizer and animal feed supplements. About 5 per cent will go into detergents. The remaining 10 per cent probably will be used in the chemicals industry.

The Bureau of Land Management, the U.S. Forest Service (Caribou National Forest) and private individuals control most of the land proposed so far for mining.

(Next: deer, elk and unexpected cliffs)

Seaver has third National league Cy Young award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Seaver, whose league-leading 22 victories and record-setting streaked performance in 1975 erased the stigma of his worst season ever, clinched his comeback campaign today by being named winner of the National League's Cy Young award for the third time.

Seaver, the New York Mets ace right hander who also won Cy Young Awards in 1969 and 1973, outpointed outpawed Randy Jones of the San Diego Padres 98-80. Before this year, only Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers had ever won three Cy Youngs, awarded annually to the league's best pitchers.

Seaver received 13 first place votes, seven for second and two for third, while Jones, the NL earned run average leader, had seven firsts, 14 seconds and three thirds. The remaining 21 first place votes went to St. Louis Cardinals' workhorse reliever Al Hrabosky, who finished third with 23 points. Voting is done on a 5-3-1 point system.

"The big thing about winning this award," said Seaver upon learning of his selection, "is that it puts me on a level with Sandy Koufax whom I consider to be the epitome of pitching consistency. I'm just grateful now that I have a chance to win even more than three."

After a recurring painful spasms in his left hip curtailed his effectiveness to a subpar 11-11 record in 1974, Seaver, with the help of a newly-developed changeup, compiled a 22-9 mark this year, the best win-loss percentage in the National League—and a 2.38 earned run average.

In addition, the 35-year-old Seaver's league-leading 241 strikeouts enabled him to pass Hall of Famers Walter Johnson and Rube Waddell as the only pitcher in baseball history to fan more than 200 batters in eight consecutive seasons.

"My changeup made a helluva difference," Seaver said late in the season when it was apparent he was on the way toward winning 20 games for the fourth time in his career. "The hitters have never seen me with this pitch before, so it gives me something extra they're not looking for."

Seaver, who finished third in the N.L. in three other department this year—complete games (15), shutouts (5) and innings pitched (289), cited a new-found maturity as a pitcher for his successful comeback.

"I always thought I would come back," he said, "but deep down inside there's that self-doubt—there has to be. I've learned what to do when I take the mound, but to tell you the truth, I never thought it would be like this."

Similarly, Jones also experienced a comeback season. A 22-game loser in 1974, the 25-year-old lefty carried the Padres to their best season ever in '75 with a 20-12 record in addition to his league-leading 2.24 earned run average.

Hrabosky, who appeared in 65 games—all in relief—was 13-3 with a 1.67 ERA and saved 22 games. He did not pitch enough innings to qualify for the earned run average title.

Besides Hrabosky and Jones, four other players drew mention with third place votes—San Francisco's John Montefusco, Cincinnati's Don Gullett and Andy Messersmith and Don Sutton of Los Angeles.

Shelton's suit may shake NCAA base

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — If Oregon State basketball forward Lonnie Shelton is granted permanent reinstatement of eligibility, the University of Oregon's star guard, Ron Lee, believes a lot of coaches, players and fans will complain in protest and perhaps even challenge Oregon's rules.

Shelton, a 6-4 junior, is in the midst of a fight to play college basketball again after signing a pro contract with St. Louis of the American Basketball Association.

U.S. District Court Judge Gus Sisson granted Shelton a temporary restraining order against the ABA's star eligibility.

"If the decision is upheld in NCAA appeal," said Lee, "a bunch of people will not just question the whole legitimacy and legality of the entire eligibility rule but also such decisions as the 12-man limit and others."

"It's a question of authority and credibility," Lee said. "If they allow Lonnie to do it," he said, "they would almost have to let everybody else do it too. The NCAA, however, will probably win. They haven't lost one yet."

Lee said coach, player and fan reaction, quite naturally, is both somewhat negative and somewhat sympathetic toward Shelton.

"He signed a contract. He shouldn't have done it. He must take the consequences," said Lee. "That is how most of them see it. There is sympathy. Personally, I hope he makes it but I don't think he will."

Lee said he believed Shelton's move was wrong. "If he was worth a million dollars as a sophomore," he should have been smart enough to wait around. "He logically would have been worth even more as a junior or senior," Lee said.

Lee said Oregon coach Dick Harter and his Oregon team do not talk much about the Shelton case.

"It's in the back of my mind, though, and I am interested," Lee said. "I am sure others are as interested and concerned. It will be interesting to see how it turns out."

If the NCAA appeals, and Lee said he expects it, the case may not be heard until December, perhaps even later. Oregon State starts its season with a Nov. 28 game at Arizona. The NCAA never has lost in over 30 appeals-eligibility court cases.

"It doesn't look good for Lonnie," Lee said. Oregon State, as a team, faces forfeiture of any or all games in which Shelton participates. "If I were Oregon State, I really don't know what I'd do," Lee said.

Kwalick stuns 49ers, signs with Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — According to Ted Kwalick, the only reason he decided to sign with the Oakland Raiders over the San Francisco 49ers was because a fresh start in the National Football League was more important than old ties or even money.

Kwalick played six seasons with the 49ers, joining All Pro honors in 1971-72-73, before exercising the option clause in his last contract and jumping to the World Football League's Philadelphia BFL.

When the WFL folded, it was assumed Kwalick would rejoin the 49ers, who were anxious for his return. Kwalick's agent, Lowell Morse, held conferences with the 49ers but then Ted told him "forget it, I'm going to sign with the Raiders."

"I talked with both clubs," Kwalick said, "and then I decided to go with the Raiders because I want a fresh start in the NFL. I have no animosity at all against the 49ers."

Morse said Tuesday agreement was reached with Oakland Monday night on a multiyear contract. Neither he nor the Raiders announced terms of the pact.

"Money was not a factor," Morse said. "Ted came out well financially with the WFL and he wasn't that interested in long negotiations centered solely around money. I think he decided on the Raiders a week ago and I'm sure it was purely because of a desire for a new start."

Under the Rozelle Rule, which has been challenged in recent weeks, the Raiders must compensate the 49ers for signing Kwalick, since San Francisco held the NFL rights to the tight end when he defected to the WFL.

Quebec to control 1976 Olympic games

MONTREAL (UPI) — Management of the 1976 Olympic Games will be taken over by the Quebec provincial government following a meeting Tuesday in Quebec City, according to Olympic sources.

Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau was not expected to oppose government plans for the takeover — to be put forward by Premier Robert Bourassa — which would end a weekend of speculation on who will manage the games.

The government move would, in effect, make the provincial government responsible for an anticipated $300-million Olympic deficit, which sources said make the mayor unlikely to oppose the takeover.

Bourassa would then present a bill to the National Assembly putting the entire Olympic construction project under control of the government. The move was not expected to be opposed in the Quebec National Assembly.

Also Bourassa would appoint Roger Trudeau, deputy minister of public works and a government representative on the Olympic watchdog committee, as head of all construction after the city said it would request an additional $500 million for increased Olympic costs, including construction.

Bourassa had said a weekend radio interview that spending discussions would revolve around cost reduction methods in the stadium complex and the swimming pools. An Olympic official said recently there would likely be some trimming of non-essential parts of the construction, but that the facilities would be sufficiently completed in time for the games starting next July 17.

ABA shrinks again as San Diego folds

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Basketball Association, teetering on thin ice financially, lost its second team of the season Tuesday when the San Diego Sails ceased to be.

The Sails, who had drawn only 7,126 for three home games this season, decided to cut their losses and fold immediately rather than try to struggle through the remainder of their schedule.

Last month the Baltimore Claws folded just before the season began. The ABA is now left with only eight active franchises and two of those, Virginia and St. Louis, are on extremely shaky financial footing.

"San Diego confirmed today that they were ceasing business operations effective immediately," said Dave DeBusschere, whose selection as the ABA commissioner last season was viewed as a move to strengthen the possibility of a merger with the National Basketball Association.

The ABA's merger request, however, was turned down Monday by the NBA's Board of Governors, who were prohibited by a court order obtained on anti-trust grounds by the NBA's Players Association from giving the matter serious consideration.

San Diego had been a troubled franchise since joining the league as the Conquistadors in the 1972-73 season. A NBA franchise earlier had failed to succeed financially in San Diego and eventually became the Houston Rockets.

The Sails went heavily into debt before former owner Dr. Leonard Bloom signed Wilt Chamberlain as player-coach for the 1973-74 season. The NBA's Los Angeles Lakers, however, obtained a court order prohibiting Chamberlain from playing that season and he quickly lost interest in the coaching end of the job.

When Bloom was no longer able to meet the club's financial obligations last season, the ABA took over operation of the team.

Frank Goldberg, a San Diego furniture dealer credited with playing an important role in building the Denver Nuggets into one of the ABA's strongest franchises, bought the San Diego franchise in June and spent a reported $2 million in clearing up accumulated debts.

The Sails players will be dispersed through a draft among the league's eight remaining clubs.

Center Caldwell Jones is certain to be chosen, but he already had signed a 1976-77 contract with the NBA's Philadelphia 76ers, who are anxious to have him join the team this season.

Other top San Diego players include guard Dwight Lamar, young forward Mark Olberding, Pat McFarland, guard Kevin Joyce and forward Stu Johnson.

Also eligible is center Dave Robisch, who started the season with Denver and was traded to the Claws before they disbanded.

Left out in the cold is Sails Coach Bill Musselman, who walked out on the University of Minnesota to take over the coaching job in San Diego, taking his prize freshman, Olberding, with him.

Orange bowl eliminates 'Bama

MIAMI (UPI) — Alabama may have lost a chance to return to the Orange Bowl New Year's night because Coach Bear Bryant couldn't make up his mind.

The invitation to meet the Big Eight Conference champion in the 42nd annual post-season football classic now almost certainly will go to the Big Ten runnerup, Michigan or Ohio State.

It was reported Tuesday that Bryant wanted two weeks to consider a return to Miami, where his team lost to Notre Dame last New Year's night. He asked the Orange Bowl Committee to delay its invitation to Nov. 22.

"We couldn't wait. If we had waited for Bryant and then he said, 'no,' we might have been left with nothing," a committee member said.

The committee had intended to wait until Nov. 22 before picking a foe for the Big Eight representative. But after contenders Florida Southern, California and Penn State were upset last Saturday, it decided the bid would have to go out next Saturday.

"We think the other bowls will rush to sign teams, so we're obliged to do likewise," said Jim Armstrong, president of the Orange Bowl Committee.

The committee also decided that if Oklahoma earns a tie with Nebraska for the Big Eight title by getting past Missouri Saturday and defeating the Cornhuskers on Nov. 22, the Sooners will get the bid to represent the conference in the Orange Bowl.

"The contract (with the Big Eight) gives us the choice. We voted to take the winner of the Nebraska-Oklahoma game," said Arnold Long.

Nick Crane, chairman of the Orange Bowl Selection Committee, confirmed that the invitation would be issued Saturday "barring the upset" of one of the contenders.

If the committee invites the Big Ten runnerup Saturday, it probably will not know until the following week just who it has invited, since the Nov. 22 clash between Michigan and Ohio State is expected to decide the conference champion, which will go to the Rose Bowl and the runnerup, which is free for the first time this year to go to another bowl.

Further, the Orange Bowl Committee will be unable to announce its choice until after the Nov. 22 games because under Big Ten rules the announcement cannot be made until the conference season ends.

Fans deery scoreboard

BOSTON (UPI) — A group named POP-UP says Fenway Park's new electronic scoreboard is a foul ball.

About 20 persons, calling themselves People Opposing Perilous and Unnecessary Progress, picketed the Boston Red Sox's 63-year-old home Tuesday as construction continued inside on the wide-screen picture board.

The group claims the board — equipped to show images: cartoons, instant replays and films of great moments in sports as well as statistics and messages — will destroy the charm of the American League park.

One member of POP-UP carried a sign reading, "The Luddites Were Right." The Luddites were a group of 19th century English workers who smashed newly invented machines in protest of the Industrial Revolution.

Secretariat foal brings $250,000

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Ben Walden couldn't help from getting the feeling he had just picked up the horse racing bargain of a lifetime, despite dishing out a record price for a weanling at Keeneland's 32nd annual breeding sale.

For it was Walden who signed the check for $250,000 for the first colt sold of 1973 Triple Crown winner Secretariat in Lexington Tuesday. The purchase eclipsed the previous record paid for a weanling by nearly $50,000 and came about 12 hours after Secretariat's first filly to be sold was purchased for $302,000 by Texas millionaire Nelson Bunker Hunt.

"I didn't bring one half of what I thought I would need to purchase the colt," said Walden, who acted as an agent for Dearborn Farms of Midway, Ky. "I thought the price would be more towards $500,000."

As it turned out, the bidding began at $100,000 and only one other bidder, Mick Sacco of Dalton, Pa., entered in the auction yelling out a $200,000 bid. But Walden, who along with partner Wells P. Hardesty of Chicago will head the syndicate on the colt, issued the third and final bid of a quarter of a million dollars.

The colt, the son of Chou Croute, was bred by the Big Sink Farm of F.V. Benjamin Jr. at Versailles where he was foaled last April 21. Both the colt and the filly were sold as weanlings — a young age to sell thoroughbred horses — in order to eliminate the annual year's potential for injury of the highly publicized foals.

Hardesty conceded he had been "only a two-dollar better" up to the sales and said the decision regarding a trainer for the colt would be made by who purchased the controlling shares of the syndicate.

Athletes' rights draw support

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billie Jean King and Howard Cosell both came out in support of expanded rights for amateur athletes Tuesday, attacking the present structure as too confining to allow individual rights.

Each supported greater freedoms but differed in their approach as how best to ensure these rights in the second of two days of hearings by the President's Commission on Olympic Sports.

Mrs. King, the reigning Wimbledon and former U.S. Open tennis champion, supported the concept of an "athlete's bill of rights" and also called for the abolition of "amateurs."

Cosell, a commentator with the ABC television network, opted for the idea of a federal commission to oversee all amateur sports, placed above the U.S. Olympic Committee, the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union.

"There's been a lot of talk about the athletes' bill of rights," said Mrs. King. "They really need one. They don't have one now. They have to have the same educational opportunities as anybody else in society. No one may direct or order another person unless they're under contract or by civil law."

She also called for the elimination of amateur status, saying "amateurs are getting shafted. They should be playing for money just like everyone else. You can't eat your trophies."

Cosell, in repeating an argument made last year before the U.S. Senate, called for a permanent three-to-five member Federal Commission superior in position to the USOC, similar to a proposal introduced last year by Sen. Marlow Cook, a Kentucky Democrat, in oversee all amateur sports in America.

"We also need greater support from all three television networks and the sporting press in this country," said Cosell. "I'll take time. I also think it would be a very good thing for professional clubs to help out amateur sports. Just exactly how, though, I'm not qualified to comment on."

The USOC is presently in control of the selection of athletes for international competition. Under their aegis are the AAL and a multitude of groups concerned with their own particular sport.

Not under the USOC is the NCAA, which resigned in 1972 from the USOC over internal conflicts.

The conflicts—between different USOC member organizations for control of the various sports and between the USOC and NCAA are a big part of what the commission is trying to resolve. Also of concern are the athletes themselves and deciding what choice they'll be allowed regarding when and where they can participate and how much money they'll have in these decisions. The college athlete, under the jurisdiction of the NCAA, is a special problem for the commission.

Bengals ban crowd signs

John Murdough, "We feel the stadium looks better without them and no exceptions will be made."

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Riverfront Stadium will not be plastered with ego-blasting signs mentioning ABC-TV sportscasters Howard Cosell, Alex Karras and Frank Gifford at next Monday night's nationally televised Cincinnati Bengals - Buffalo Bills game.

"It is the policy of the Bengals not to have signs and has been so since we moved into the stadium in 1970," said Bengals Business Manager

Despite the "no sign" policy here, fans have been known to walk about Riverfront Stadium carrying banners.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, NOV. 13, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to study all phases of any course of action that is important to your progress and then to draw up a plan of action whereby success is insured.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have obligations that should be attended to now without delay. Show more affection for loved one. Be happy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Discussing new ideas with associates may prove to be profitable in the future. Use right tactics with an opponent.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle all that work ahead of you and see that it's done properly. Take the health treatments that are needed.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make plans to meet with persons you like for entertainment after a good day's work. Obtain the data you need.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make sure you keep promises made with others. Put your intuitive faculties to work. Be more understanding of mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A fine day to have interesting and constructive talks with associates which can lead to success in the future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Attend to necessary tasks and make your surroundings brighter. Show wisdom in dealing with others. Be poised.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take time for the recreation that will get you out of a tense situation. Show mate that you are happy with the alliance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Showing devotion to those who dwell with you brings more accord now. A new outlet could be profitable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show more consideration for your allies in business and gain their goodwill. Be careful of one who is conniving.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You now understand how to handle financial affairs and can do much to improve your position in life. Relax tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are at your best now and can easily make a fine impression on others. A good time to repay a social obligation.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will need the right philosophy of life on which to build a successful career. Courses in psychology can be helpful in developing the "inner potential" in this child. Screen playmates carefully early in life.

Consider wives abandoned by their husbands and husbands abandoned by their wives. What one sentence is most commonly said by such? A tracer of missing persons with a fair record of success in finding same says, "I gave (him or her) the best years of my life." The lives of our Love and War men tend to confirm that report. They indicate, too, that abandoned husbands show far more anger at first than do abandoned wives, but don't continue to show it anywhere nearly so long.

READING

Q. "Lawrence of Arabia claimed he had read 40,000" books during his stay at Oxford. Is that possible?"

A. In a word, no. The professional readers who put in eight hours a day in publishing houses don't even come close to that. After 20 years of reading six or seven hours daily, Van Wyck Brooks, for instance, said he still hadn't read as many as 6,000 books. Adolf Hitler was another phony in this regard. He contended he had read 7,000 military books. Bunk! And included in the fiction of Thomas Wolfe was his nonsense report that he had read 20,000 books.

Killer bees due in US by 1988

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—So-called killer bees from South America will cross into the United States by 1988, according to U.S. government carriers, a proposed full-scale battle to stem their invasion, entomologist Orley R. Taylor says.

Taylor, an entomologist from the University of Illinois, told the 13th annual conference of the Council for the Advancement of Science Writing today the bees are "moving through South and Central America at between 200 and 300 miles a year."

"If they keep moving at their present speed," Taylor said, "they will enter Panama in 1981, and cross into the United States, probably near Brownsville, Tex., somewhere between 1988 and 1994."

But Taylor said Americans should not panic as the bees get closer, despite recent stories that they can cause a wave of death to humans and animals.

"It's not like some science-fiction scare story," he said.

Not all of them are aggressive all the time, and there's nothing to suggest they are a serious threat to public health or safety."

On the other hand, he said, there is some cause for alarm. "They are aggressive," Taylor said, "and they certainly will be aggressive when they enter the United States."

He said experts from the U.S. Department of Agriculture have proposed a variety of defenses to the bees — ranging from physical barriers across the narrow isthmus of Panama to genetic and chemical warfare.

Taylor said he doubted anything would completely stop the bees.

The bees, a strain originating in South Africa, began swarming north in 1957 after their escape from a Sao Paulo research station.

Taylor said experts have counted at least 500,000 swarms, with unofficial estimates ranging up to two million swarms.
